I. Background: The University of Maryland, Baltimore ISPOR Student chapter was established in January 2003 to encourage and disseminate research in pharmacoeconomics and outcomes research across campus and beyond. The chapter is guided by two faculty advisors Dr. C. Daniel Mullins and Dr. Eberechukwu Onukwugha.

II. Mission Statement: The mission of the University of Maryland ISPOR Student Chapter is to advance the scientific knowledge of pharmacoeconomics and outcomes research on campus. The chapter also serves as a bridge in bringing together students, faculty, members of the pharmaceutical industry and other healthcare related organizations interested in this area of research.
