I. Background:

Our student chapter at UW has been in operation since 2009. Our faculty advisor is Lou Garrison, PhD.

II. Mission Statement:

The mission of the ISPOR Student Chapter at the University of Washington is to:
1. Provide a forum where students can share knowledge about pharmacoeconomics and health outcomes research.
2. Increase student awareness of new concepts, ideas, and advances in pharmacoeconomics and health outcomes research.
3. Provide students in the field of pharmacoeconomics and outcomes research networking opportunities with members of the pharmaceutical industry, health related organizations, and other universities.
4. Promote opportunities for professional growth and leadership development.
5. Familiarize students with the goals and objectives of the International Society for Pharmacoeconomics and Outcomes Research (ISPOR).
