This study presents several limitations, principally due to absence of data referred to the national context. Where it was not possible to obtain granular data about the per-patient risk of RSV per month and per subpopulation, data were obtained...